About

Vishrutyi Sahni is a Partner in the Disputes practice at JSA with a strong focus on complex commercial disputes at the intersection of insolvency, restructuring, arbitration, technology and platform regulation across multi-agency enforcement. She regularly navigates matters that span multiple fora, regulators, and jurisdictions, advising financial institutions, technology companies and corporate stakeholders on multi-forum strategy, enforcement, and dispute risk in commercially sensitive and cross-border matters.

Vishrutyi regularly acts in commercial disputes, including domestic and international arbitrations (both ad hoc and institutional), as well as litigation arising from contractual arrangements, shareholder relationships, and enforcement actions. She also has significant experience in insolvency and restructuring-related disputes, particularly in the context of distressed assets, recovery actions, and restructuring scenarios. In this space, she advises and represents creditors, lenders, resolution professionals, and corporate stakeholders, and works closely with financial institutions on enforcement, recovery, and restructuring-related litigation.

In parallel, Vishrutyi has developed a focused practice in technology and platform-related disputes, including intermediary liability, content regulation, and regulatory enforcement actions. She advises technology platforms, fintech companies, and technology-led manufacturing businesses on navigating evolving regulatory frameworks, managing enforcement exposure. She has represented and supported Clients in proceedings involving multiple regulators and agencies, including in enforcement and compliance-driven actions before sectoral authorities and specialised forums such as the CCPA, BIS and NGT, as well as proceedings involving pollution control authorities (CPCB/SPCBs), legal metrology and food safety regulators, consumer protection fora.

Her practice also encompasses white-collar and regulatory matters, including internal investigations, allegations of financial irregularities and misconduct, and engagements with investigative authorities. She regularly advises on investigation strategy, regulatory interface, and parallel proceedings arising from such matters. In the present times of an increasing convergence of regulatory oversight across both new-age and traditional industries, she has a growing experience in representing clients before law enforcement agencies such as the Enforcement Directorate, SFIO, EOW and NCB.

Vishrutyi is known for her ability to combine legal strategy with commercial insight, and for working closely with clients to deliver practical, business-oriented solutions in complex and fast-evolving dispute scenarios.

Vishrutyi represents clients in disputes across fora in India, ranging from the Supreme Court and various High Courts to statutory tribunals and regulatory authorities

Prior to JSA, she worked as a judicial law clerk-cum-research assistant to Hon'ble Mr. Justice (Retd.) Madan B. Lokur at the Supreme Court of India.

Experience

Some of the key assignments in these areas handled and being handled by Vishrutyi amongst others, cover the following: -

- acting for the respondents (majority investors) in a SIAC emergency arbitration involving disputes relating to board control and corporate governance, resulting in a favourable interim order delineating the limits of arbitral intervention in board-level decisions, in collaboration with international counsel on Indian and Singapore law and procedure;
- representing a Singapore-headquartered multinational banking and financial services corporation in execution proceedings before the Delhi High Court, and in connected proceedings relating to a forensic audit into dealings concerning pledged shares of a listed healthcare company and associated borrower and group entities;
